Who is required to comply with Federal civil rights laws?

If you receive Federal funds or assistance, such as a loan or grant, from USDA Rural Development, you must comply with Federal civil rights laws and provide equal opportunity for all people to participate in the programs and activities you offer. For example, you should not deny or exclude anyone from programs, services, aids, or benefits. Additionally, you must not retaliate in any manner against a person who files a complaint or opposes any unlawful or discriminatory practice.

This guide provides a basic overview of your responsibilities for ensuring nondiscrimination in the delivery of your programs and activities to the public on bases covered by Federal law. These bases include race, color, national origin, sex (in education programs or activities), age, and disability. It also includes a list of the applicable civil rights laws you must follow.

What is considered “Federal funds or assistance?”

Federal funds or assistance includes:

- Federal monies given by grants, sub-grants, cooperative agreements, challenge cost-share agreements, cost-reimbursable agreements, or loans.
- Training presented by a Federal agency.
- The loan or temporary assignment of Federal personnel (for example, having a Rural Development employee instruct a course at a local university).
- The loan or use of Federal property at below-market value.

Are we a recipient of Federal funding and assistance?

You are a “recipient” if, through a partnership with Rural Development, you receive Federal funding or assistance—either directly or through another recipient—to conduct a program you offer to the public.

Recipients include:

- Any individual receiving Federal funding or assistance.
- A State or local government.
- An American Indian or Alaska Native individual, tribe, corporation, or organization.
- Any public or private agency, institution, or organization, such as a university, college, or non-profit.

What are our responsibilities for complying with Federal civil rights laws?

As a partner with Rural Development, your responsibilities for complying with Federal civil rights laws include, but are not limited to:

- Signing an assurance certifying that you will comply with civil rights laws. If you have sub-recipients, obtain a signed assurance from them.
- Displaying the “And Justice for All” U.S. Department of Agriculture poster (AD-475C) in your public reception areas or other areas visible to the public. Contact your Rural Development office to obtain copies.
- Including the following statement about nondiscrimination and how to file a complaint in your publications and outreach materials:

To file a program discrimination complaint, complete the USDA Program Discrimination Complaint Form, AD-3027, found online at http://www.ascr.usda.gov/complaint_filing_cust.html and at any USDA office or write a letter addressed to USDA and provide in the letter all of the information requested in the form. To request a copy of the complaint form, call (866) 632-9992. Submit your completed form or letter to USDA by:

- 1. mail: U.S. Department of Agriculture Office of the Assistant Secretary for Civil Rights 1400 Independence Avenue, SW, Washington, D.C. 20250-9410;
- 2. fax: (202) 690-7442; or
- 3. email: program.intake@usda.gov.

- If the publications or materials are too small to permit use of the full statement, at a minimum, include the following statement, in print size no smaller than the text:

This institution is an equal opportunity provider.

- If your publications and outreach materials are related to a loan or grant project, include a statement of affiliation with Rural Development, such as:

This publication made possible through a grant from USDA Rural Development.

–OR–

This project was conducted in cooperation with USDA Rural Development.

- Providing program information in alternative formats for people with disabilities and in alternative languages for people with limited English proficiency, as appropriate to your customer base.
- Identifying a person to be responsible for ensuring that your program is in compliance with civil rights requirements.
- Reviewing all your policies, procedures, and practices to ensure that they do not limit participation on the bases of race, color, national origin, age, disability, or sex (in educational programs and activities).
- Evaluating the accessibility of your programs and facilities. If they are not now accessible, develop a transition plan for making them accessible, and then carry out the plan as appropriate.
- Ensuring that your staff understands their civil rights responsibilities, including their role in the USDA complaint process.
- Providing outreach to a wide variety of communities to ensure diversity if you advertise or market your program.
- Providing information to Rural Development on your outreach to participants in your programs and activities.
